Let's Start!

Let's work out the details of the job.

Learning Outcome

Analyze issues relating to different topics and their solution in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What kinds of daily tasks do you have in your job?
- What are your favorite and least favorite daily tasks? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about what needs to be done or needs doing.
- I can explain how I will do certain tasks in my job.
- I can talk about my work responsibilities.

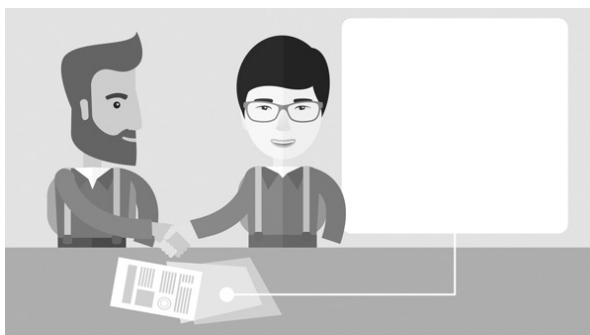

Let's Explore!

Kristi gets the rundown from her editor.

* A "rundown" is a detailed report.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Kristi: Hi. Is this a good time?

Adam: Yes, Kristi. Come in please. I wasn't sure if you were clear on the tasks that needed completing this week.

Kristi: Well, I have an idea, but going over them again would be good.

Adam: Okay. Let's have a look at what needs to take precedence. First, we have two chapters of a manuscript that need to be edited. I'll just remind you that our in-house style guidelines need to be followed. Errors in grammar, spelling and consistency need to be identified. You can pick up the manuscript from Rob, and he can also give you our style guide. Talking to Rob about the style guide will make it clearer. These chapters need to be completed by Thursday, end of day.

Kristi: Okay. Completing that editing will be a priority.

Adam: Great. At this stage you have the liberty to rewrite and make changes as you see fit. Checking for errors of fact also needs to be done. Please be meticulous.

Kristi: Yes, of course. I will focus my attention on scrutinizing the texts.

Adam: Excellent. We also have some layout that you can do. It involves positioning photos on the pages of a manuscript. Again, using the style guide will make this easy for you.

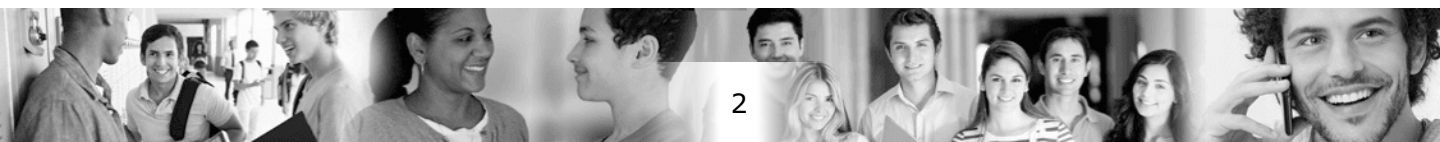

Kristi: Great. And checking with the other copy editors will ensure that I'm doing things correctly.

Adam: Are you good at writing headlines and captions?

Kristi: I don't have much experience with it but I plan on developing this skill.

Adam: That's great! As your editor, I will commit to training you and growing your skills. So, make the editing your first priority and check back with me later about the layout and captions.

Kristi: I will. Thank you.

Let's Practice!

The editor gives Kristi some things to do.

Instructions: Read the sentences and circle the correct words to complete them.

1. First, we have two chapters of a manuscript that need to be edited / needing to edit / needs to editing.
2. I'll just remind you that our in-house style guidelines needs following / need follow / need to be followed.
3. Errors in grammar, spelling and consistency needs identify / needed identified / need to be identified.
4. These chapters need to be completed / needs completing / needed completes by Thursday, end of day.
5. Checking for errors of fact also needs to be done / need doing / needed do.

Let's Practice!

The editor talks to Kristi about the importance of each task.

Instructions: Choose the words from the word bank to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

training you / will make this / on developing / will be / I will focus / will make

1. Talking with Rob about the style guide _____ clearer.
2. Completing that editing _____ a priority.
3. _____ my attention on scrutinizing the texts.
4. Using the style guide _____ easy for you.
5. I am going to plan _____ this skill in the near future.
6. I will commit to _____ and growing your skills.

Extension Activity

Make a "to-do" list for work.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think about work that you need to do at your job, at school or at home.
- Write a list of things that need to be done or need doing.
- Put them in order of importance or priority from most important to least important.
- If possible, go around your classroom and share your to-do list. Ask if any students can help you to do any of your tasks.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write a list of things that need to be done.

I put my list in order of importance.

I share my list with classmates.

Target Words

- to take precedence (expression): to be considered more important than other things e.g. Let's have a look at what needs to take precedence.
- consistency (noun): the quality of always happening in a similar way e.g. Errors in grammar, spelling and consistency need to be identified.
- manuscript (noun): the original copy of a book or article before it is printed e.g. We have two chapters of a manuscript that need to be edited.
- in-house (adjective): work done within a company rather than by outside contractors e.g. I'll just remind you that our in-house style guidelines need to be followed.
- liberty (noun): freedom
e.g. At this stage you have the liberty to rewrite.
- to see fit (expression): to think is necessary
e.g. Make changes as you see fit.
- to scrutinize (verb): to check carefully
e.g. I will focus my attention on scrutinizing the texts.
- layout (noun): the way that something is arranged
e.g. We also have some layout that you can do.
- caption (noun): a short description or explanation below an image
e.g. Are you good at writing headlines and captions?

Learning Points

Need + Passive Infinitive

You usually use need as a normal verb to express necessity. You use the passive infinitive in some constructions using the passive voice.

Subject + Need + Passive Infinitive

For example:

First, we have two chapters of a manuscript that need to be edited.

The subject of the sentence is the thing that needs to be done (two chapters of a manuscript).

When you choose to use the passive, you are choosing to shift the focus of the sentence to the receiver of the action, rather than the agent (the doer of the action). It is common to use the passive structure when you want to be more polite or in more formal situations, like the workplace.

Examples:

- We have two chapters of a manuscript that need to be edited.
- Our in-house style guidelines need to be followed.
- Errors in grammar, spelling and consistency need to be identified.
- These chapters need to be completed by Thursday, end of day.
- Checking for errors of fact also needs to be done.

Learning Points

Clauses using verb+ing

You can use clauses with verb+ing in different ways. Remember, a clause is a part of a sentence that has its own subject and verb.

Position	Example
As subject	Achieving so much at an early age is wonderful.
As object	I love listening to music at night .
After a preposition	You need to focus on learning a lot in a little amount of time .

Read the following examples from the dialogue. Notice the position of the clause with verb+ing.

Examples:

- Talking with Rob about the style guide will make it clearer.
- Completing that editing will be a priority.
- I will focus my attention on scrutinizing the texts.
- Using the style guide will make this easy for you.
- I plan on developing this skill.
